

Kensington Church's Response to the COVID-19 Situation:

Clarkston

Being the Church

"Anxiety weighs down the heart, but a kind word cheers it up." Proverbs 12:25. This is a time of weighty anxiety, isn't it? There are so many unknowns, fears, and overwhelming emotions right now. First, we want you to know that we are praying for you, individually, in informal online prayer gatherings, and on Monday nights as our prayer team connects (Clarkstonprayer@kensingtonchurch.org). We also want you to know that as we connect with you, we are so very encouraged as we see you all being the church in your communities. You are checking on each other and communicating through online video services. Moms and Dads are sharing ideas for keeping kids busy and learning. Many of you are diving into Move Out initiatives to help feed children out of school and deliver groceries to the vulnerable and elderly. You are creatively reaching out to your neighbors, delivering pies and treats, giving away storybooks and games, setting up neighborhood "chalk walks" (write messages on your sidewalk), "Teddy Bear Hunts" (put bears in your windows for kids to spot), and even a "Safari" (put animal pictures up in windows), so when parents get their kids outside for walks it becomes an adventure. Many of you are simply offering kind, gentle words to those that are fearful, and pointing them to the one who is the Prince of Peace. We are so thankful for you all. Keep being the church and let us know if you need anything at all.

Groups and Discipleship

While all of our ministries, events, and groups meeting at our facilities are suspended, we are actively navigating how to stay socially distanced yet stay spiritually connected. If you are looking for a group of people to connect with, contact your campus discipleship director at jill.cascone@kensingtonchurch.org. We also encourage groups and individuals to check out kensingtonchurch.org/rightnowmedia for free Bible study content. There is an excellent study on Psalm 23 by Matt Chandler that we suggest. Also, consider using the Bible app YouVersion for daily devotions and encouragement during this new rhythm. Together we can stay physically distant but socially and spiritually connected and growing during these challenging times.
